Project mission artist statement

The vision for this project is to implement all that represent who and what i am, that includes objects, materials, and photographs, for this project i will manage to arrange the grid and the pictures with symmetry, hierarchy, and repetition, having some pictures bigger than others, having them in rows of different sizes, and having them repeated and placed in different locations in the grid, as a result it will show what i wanted, my goal is to use objects and materials to represent myself in a portrait, also using ordering principles.

Final 3D Project With Views

Ruben Hernandez

In this abstract 3 Dimensional Self Portrait project, I wanted to implement the four aspects of my life, those are the things that I like, that inspire me, and that I'm passionate about. These include my sports, but mainly soccer. It also has rings and chains since I am a bit sort of a materialistic person. I really like my neck and hand accessories. I placed my lamp instead of a lightbulb, that represents my ideas. I incorporated hierarchy, making two boxes bigger than the rest, I also added symmetry by making two boxes on each side. The two main buildings in the middle, represent my timeline. The first one represents youth, hard work, art, music, sports, and buildings which are written on my first building. The second one is empty because it represents my adulthood, something that I still need to discover. The qualities and characteristics I develop as I grow up will each day be different day and different lesson.
